

The Island

It was Thursday and it was sunny, but it must have changed overnight, because on Friday the sky was getting darker. Around midday it started to rain and each hour it got heavier and heavier until I had my TV on full volume then my TV turned blank. "What happened?" I said, I tried to turn it on. Then I found out the power was turn off. I went outside. I found out our house had become a piece of land with a house on it with water surrounding it. IT BECAME AN ISLAND!!!!

After a couple of days the water had come down. We tried to get to my friend's house but the road was still flooded... the next day we went there by canoe. Then the day after that we could finally drive there. It was at least a week before school started up again.