

The flood

On Tuesday we were in town and just about to go to have lunch, when it started to rain but I didn't take much notice of it. But when we got home it started to pour down rain. And then our dams started to overflow into the lagoon. And my brother Ben bogged the ute about 100 metres from the water's edge and in the morning it was all filled up because the first dam overflowed into the second and the second dam overflowed into the lagoon and the lagoon filled up so much that it went over both the dam walls and 5 feet over our drivewayThe next day was Australia Day and we went down to see if we could unbog the car but when we got down where the car was all you could see was the top of the car's roof.
